The NCTE has a step-by-step guide on the Kansas ID gender marker change process as well: <https://transequality.org/documents/state/kansas>.

What should I do if I was not born in Kansas, and my birth certificate is in another state?

If your birth certificate is not issued by Kansas, you should research your state's gender marker change requirements and follow the procedure outlined by their laws.

The National Center for Transgender Equality has a comprehensive guide to the gender marker change procedure in each state:
<https://transequality.org/documents>.

On the Application to Amend a Kansas Birth Certificate, what should I write under “Reason for Request?”

“Personal reasons” is a sufficient explanation for reason for gender marker change. This document will not become a public record.

If I am only applying to amend my gender marker, do I need to fill out the entire “Birth Information on Legal Certificate” section of the Application?

Yes. This information is required to locate your birth certificate.

If I am a minor requesting a name change, does my legal guardian have to approve and sign off on my gender marker change?

Yes. The legal guardian should sign the application on behalf of the minor requesting a name change and provide a copy of their state-issues ID. The minor requesting a name change should sign the affidavit.

Where I can find a notary public to notarize my affidavit?

- You can go to UPS and have your affidavit notarized by one of their notary publics, at a small cost.
- Many banks employ notary publics at no or small cost to their customers.
- If you are a college student, your university may have a legal services student who is a notary public.

Will my birth certificate now read “Amended Birth Certificate?”

Yes, your birth certificate will say “Amended Birth Certificate” in the upper left-hand corner. This is typical for any amendment of a birth certificate. This amendment notification will look the same for both name changes and gender marker changes.

Will my birth certificate become a public record once it is amended?

No. The Office of Vital Statistics is not an Open Records office, and your birth certificate and amendment are not public records.

What gender markers are available on Kansas birth certificates?

Only “female” and “male” gender markers are available on Kansas birth certificates. Kansas currently does not recognize a third gender marker, like “x,” on birth certificates.

Does my application have to be mailed, or can I submit it in person?

You can submit your application in person or by mail. You should visit the Office of Vital Statistics at 1000 SW Jackson, Topeka, KS Suite 120. You should ask for the amendment division, where you will submit your application materials.
